

Argula von Grumbach (1492-1554)

The Bavarian noble woman was the first woman author of pamphlets promoting academic freedom and the reformatory sola scriptura. Her 1523/1524 pamphlets saw numerous editions reaching about 30,000 readers, in Bavaria and far beyond. She corresponded with Luther, Spalatin and other reformers and was a fearless critic of the frivolous goings-on at the Diet of Nuremberg in 1523.
